HO ORDERS HSU TO RETAIN HIS POSITION HERE

Former Foreign Commissioner Urged To [ignore] Peking Orders

While Peking has appointed Mr. S. T. Wen, former Commissioner of Foreign Affairs at Nanking, to succeed Mr. Hsu Yuan, Special Commissioner of Foreign Affairs at Shanghai, General Ho Feng-lin, the warring Defence Commissioner at Shanghai, has ordered Mr. Hsu not to hand over the seals and documents of his office to Mr. Wen.

Mr. Hsu, who is now on leave of absence, could not be seen at the Bureau yesterday, but his assistants stated that up to yesterday afternoon, the local Bureau of Foreign Affairs had not received any instructions from the Peking Government of the change, nor had the new Commissioner, who has been here since Saturday, given notice to the Bureau of his intention to assume his new office.

Individual members of the Consular body here are of the opinion that since Mr. Wen has been appointed by the Peking Government, which the powers have accorded recognition, the consuls here will have to recognise Mr. Wen as the commissioner.

Mr. Wen is known to many residents in Shanghai both foreign and Chinese on account of his connection with the Y.M.C.A. and his work in effecting the release of the foreign captive of the Lincheng bandits. While in Nanking, he holds concurrently the office of the superintendent of Customs, which job by Presidential Mandate has been given to Mr. Yao Yueh. He is one of the closest friends of Tuchun Chi Hsieh-yuan and on account of the political dissension between Kiangsu and Shanghai, he had been previously making occasional visits to Shanghai to consult the Consular Body here on diplomatic affairs without reference to the local Bureau of Foreign Affairs.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, October 4.—The Cabinet meeting today decided to relieve Mr. Hsu Yuan, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs of Shanghai, of his office and to appoint Mr. Wen Shih-chen, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs of Nanking as the successor in addition to his present post. It has also been decided to make Mr. Hsu Yuan await another official appointment.

SOVIET CONSULATE HERE RAISES RED FLAG OF U. S. S. R.

Ceremony Attended By Big Assembly; Prominent Officials Present

The red flag of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics was raised over the Russian Consular building here yesterday, and a formal ceremony in the morning and a big festivity in the evening were held to celebrate the occasion. The principal Chinese officials in this locality were present to extend their congratulations, and the buildings were thronged with hundreds of Russians fortunate enough to obtain invitations, while others crowded the streets around the Consulate, and lined up across Garden Bridge and the Soochow Creek shore of the Public Gardens.

Scores of red flags, bearing the hammer and sickle and the red star of the Soviet Union, hung from the windows of the building. Red bunting wound around the pillars at the door added to the effect. Inside the hall, on the verandas, and in the garden at the back of the building, a crowd moved in and out. In addition to the Russians, and the Chinese officials, there were a group of Red sailors from various coun-

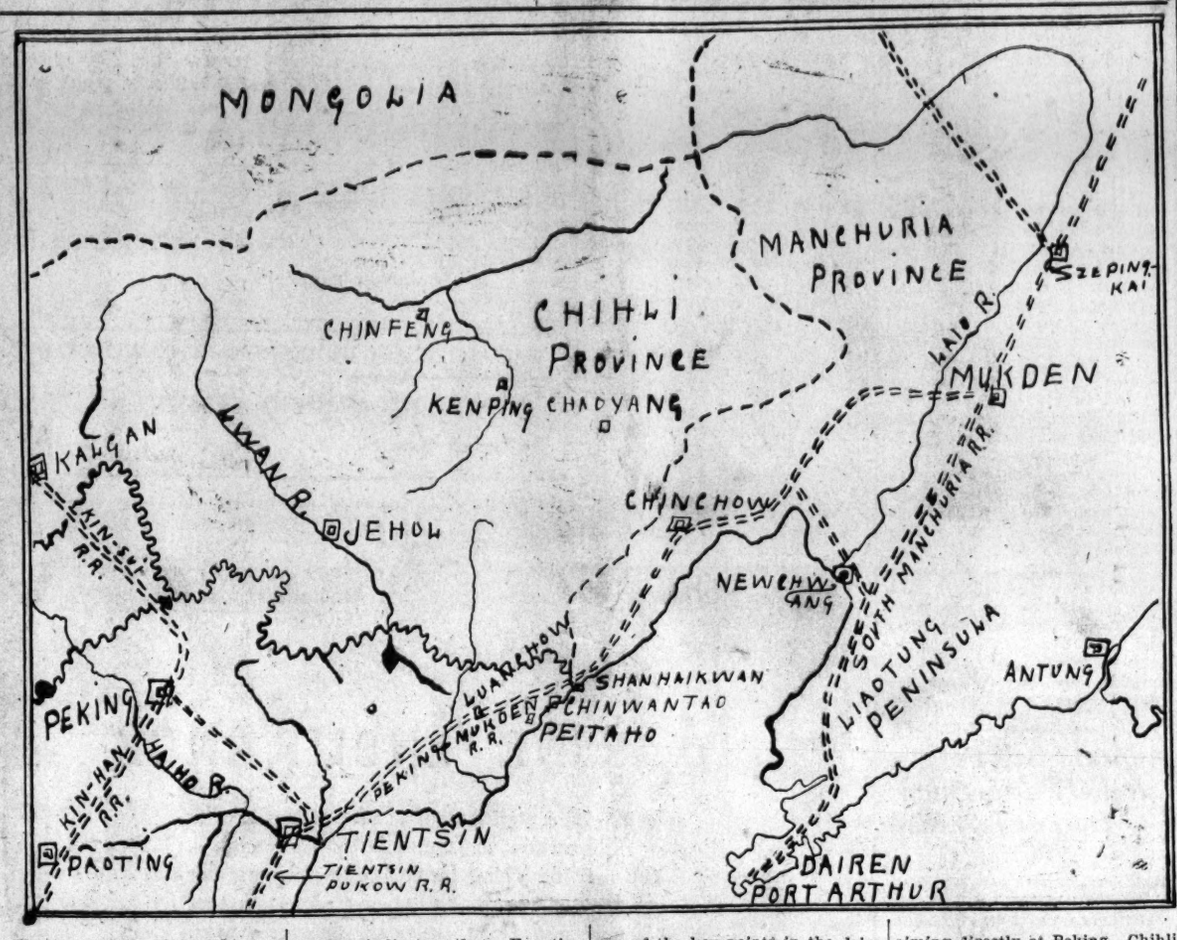
Where Chihli And Fengtien Are Fighting It Out



The map above shows the territory between Peking and Mukden where the forces of Chang Tso-lin and Wu Pei-fu are engaged in a struggle to determine, if possible, the overlordship of all North China. Latest news dispatches indicate that Fengtien forces, traveling overland, have succeeded in capturing both Chaoyang and Chihfeng, and that the two armies which participated in these actions are now proceeding in a double attack on Jehol, one of the key-points in the drive on Peking. Apparently the Fengtien strategy is merely to hold the enemy at Shanhaikuan, where fighting is also in progress, and attempt an encircling movement aiming directly at Peking. Chihli, on the other hand, is said to be contemplating the shipment of troops by boat from Tientsin to Newchwang with a view to attempting a drive on Mukden.

Fukien Troops Hammer Shanghai's 'Back Door;' Chekiang Lock Holds

Railway Between Lunghua And Sungkiang Twice Broken Over Week-End As Supposed Result Of Kiangsu Spy Tactics

BY TALBOT PATRICK

A steady succession of minor attacks tending to wear out the Chekiang defenders of the Sungkiang-Whangpoo River sector, two successful attempts to cut the railway line between Shanghai and Sungkiang and gradually increasing intensity of gunfire on the Huangtu front were portents over the week-end of the coming Shanghaiward of the red tornado of war.

The whole front, between bridge 31 on the Hangchow railway five miles the other side of Sungkiang down to the main stream of the Whangpoo, has been the scene of the persistent Fukien pounding at the Chekiang defense lines. As the situation develops, it looks more and more serious in this sector, a large factor being an apparent lack of manpower to resist the attacks and to make any counter-attack in case the present front should be broken.

A trip to Minghong yesterday showed only a small number of men there in reserve for such an emergency. The lone company of two hundred and fifty came from Lootien and expected to be shifted in the near future to a village named Sungling, near Sungkiang. They professed a belief that a number of men would follow them in the near future. Meanwhile, a small steamer waited at the wharfside with steam up and soldier or police guards about it and several large towboats.

TRAIN DERAILED

The railway line was first cut Saturday night, by the removal of a fishplate joining two rails. An engine drawing a freight car ran off the track when it reached the place, but with no serious results to the rolling stock or line.

The break was between Mei Ka Lung and Hsin Chwang and was not cleared until 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Shortly after dusk last night and apparently not long after the second and last passenger train of the day had left Sungkiang, the line was again cut, this time about two miles this side of Sungkiang. The confused reports received were that rails had been taken up from the line near bridge 27 and thrown into a small canal or creek.

The break in the line was apparently discovered by the crew of an engine running slow, which was stopped before it came to the break. A repair gang was expected to replace the rails and

CONSUL RAASCHOU DIES HERE AFTER LENGTHY ILLNESS

Formerly Senior In Consular Body; Well-Known And Popular Figure

Mr. Raaschou, Danish Consul-General and former Senior Consul in Shanghai, died at St. Marie's Hospital yesterday morning from lung disease. The deceased suffered very much during the last few months, and has been steadily declining in strength. The many who came in contact with him during his long stay here, and came to appreciate his many fine qualities, deeply regret his loss.

The deceased, Peter Theodor Raaschou, was of a well-known family in Copenhagen. He was born there on June 28, 1862, and graduated as an attorney from the University of Copenhagen in 1885. After a number of years in the Foreign Office, including a Consular appointment to London, he was in 1904 appointed to Shanghai, first as Consul and later as Consul-General, with supervision of the Danish Consulates at other points in China. He finally came to be recognised as Senior Consul here, and in this capacity attended the opening of the last Tariff Revision Commission. He gave up the

Chang Tso-lin Makes Sudden Change In Management Of Railway And Takes Former Head And Departmental Chiefs Into Custody

(Eastern News Agency)

Harbin, Oct. 4.—In connection with the arrest of M. Ostroumoff, General Manager, and M. Gondatti, Chief of the Land Department, of the Chinese Eastern Railway, the Japanese, British, American, and French Consuls here today called on General Chu Ching-lan, Director General of the Chinese Eastern Railway Protection Bureau, and requested him to release them. In reply, General Chu stated that their arrest having been carried out in accordance with strict orders from Marshal Chang Tso-lin, he was not in a position to comply with the request by the foreign Consuls on his own account. Accordingly, the Consuls for the Four Powers referred to have, on the one hand, made General Chu ask Marshal Chang for instructions, and on the other hand, started a movement for the release of the two Russian officials.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 4.—The French Minister today warned the Waichiaopu to the effect that if the Soviet-Mukden agreement should have been concluded in such a manner as to affect the interests France has in the Chinese Eastern Railway, France would be compelled to lodge a protest with the Chinese Government.

(Eastern News Agency)

Harbin, Oct. 5.—Referring to the reason for the arrest of M. Ostroumoff and M. Gondatti, the Chinese authorities here announce as follows;—"The Chinese citizens in general here, for some time past, have entertained acute ill-feelings towards these Russian officials inasmuch as they recently put on the stage a play which tended a slur on the prestige of the Chinese nation. "Moreover, as regards the Chinese Eastern Railway question, they have long plotted secretly, thereby destroying the administration of the Railway. Even in connection with the business of the Railway. There have been many obscure points about what they have done in the past. For these reasons, they have been arrested and taken into custody, now that the Soviet-Mukden agreement has been concluded, though the Chinese authorities concerned long ago found it necessary to arrest and examine them."

In this connection, a section of the new Soviet directors of the Chinese Eastern Railway declare that the arrest of the said Russian officials was quite beyond their expectation as they have not yet been officially communicated with by the Chinese authorities in this matter. Foreign residents here are all expressing words of censure against the drastic ac-

BRITISH LABOR LEADERS PREPARE FOR POLLS TEST

Choice Of Issue Is Big Question In General Election

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 4.—Enquiries at the Labor Party Headquarters today show that, while preparations are very active owing to the assumption of the imminence of an election, opinion is divided with regard to the choice of an issue.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald is credited with a desire to dissolve on the Workers' Weekly issue, considering the Liberal demand for an enquiry into the circumstances of the dropping of the sedition charge as an intolerable implication against the Attorney-General, but a small group of Mr.

SHARP FIRING CONTINUES NEAR SUNGKIANG; OTHER FRONTS REMAIN TRANQUIL

Chang Tso-lin's Telegram To Lu Yung-hsiang Asserts Death Of General Peng Shou-hsin And Wang Huai-ching In Action; Chekiang Loses On Southern Front

Save on the Sungkiang front, there has been no change in the battle line since Saturday in the local war situation.

In the North, big victories have been claimed by the Mukden headquarters.

Marshal Chang Tso-lin, in a telegram addressed to General Lu Yung-hsiang yesterday morning, asserted that two of the fighting generals of the Chihli Army have been killed. They were Pang Shou-hsin and Wang Huai-ching.

Serious fighting continued in the Sungkiang sector on Sunday and yesterday. The Chekiang forces were pushed back on Sunday night, losing the village of Chu Ching, which was defended by 200-odd men, but two regiments of fresh troops were rushed to the line yesterday morning and the belligerents lock horns over Bridge No. 31, which has been blown up by the Chekiang defence.

Fighting on the Liuho-Kiating-Huangtu sectors was merely sporadic.

KIANGSU SUFFERS 2,000 CASUALTIES IN HUANGTU PUSH

Chi's Soldiery Still Think They Would Be Here In One Week

BY MILES A. GOLDRICK

Anting, Oct. 5.—Preparations are in full swing today for what seems to be the biggest drive of the war. Trainloads of soldiers are pouring in and from their equipment and bearing they appear to be first class fighting men. They are mainly Honanese with a few regiments of recruits from Nanking. One trainload came in with twelve of what the men call "Honanese pets" or commonly, ugly looking mountain guns.

The firing line is comparatively quiet with the exception of a Kiangsu raid which took place last night. A force of two hundred men attempted to clean out two machine gun nests which have the track enfiladed at this point but were sharply repulsed and had to retire with very heavy losses.

The reports of the railway station at Anting being bombed are entirely unfounded. At present I am sitting on a pile of ammunition on the shady side of the station and neither one seem to be on fire. Undoubtedly, if the Chekiang planes succeeded in dropping a bomb at this point it would spell disaster for the tracks are lined up for a mile with cars loaded with ammunition, but as yet the activities of the planes are confined to circling around at a height perfectly safe from gunfire.

Anting, October 1 (delayed).—A lull in the fighting today shows the true state of affairs at thus point: During the last few days of hand to hand fighting the lines have been in a more or less chaotic state but the two armies are now entrenched in some permanent positions about four hundred yards apart and approximately one mile from Hwangtu.

The Kiangsu attack of last week and the subsequent capture of Bridge Twenty Four was repulsed by a heavy counter attack early this morning and although the Kiangsu attacking force lost its position at the bridge they

Major Zanni Is Delayed By Coast Storm

The Argentine World Flier, Major Zanni, who was to take off here for Kagoshima yesterday, was again obliged to postpone his departure on account of the storm raging off the coast of Japan. Reports received at the Japanese Consulate-General yesterday indicate that the storm was of considerable magnitude and the weather was unsuitable for the flight.

Mr. A. del Carril, the Argentine Consular representative, left here yesterday for Hongkong on a business trip and will not see the airman hop off when the weather becomes favorable.

On Sunday night, sharp fighting took place in the villages of Punan, Changyien, Sungying and Tanlaimiao in the Sungkiang sector. Sungyen was partly occupied early yesterday morning, and the invading Fukien regiment was headed for Changtse to break through the line for Sungkiang. Chekiang's heavy artillery fire caused the collapse of two tea shops in the east, burying more than 40 Fukienese. The Chekiang defenders under the command of General Ma Liang then made a rush with bayonets and hand grenades and repelled the attack, causing casualties placed at 200 for the Kiangsu army and over 30 for the Chekiangse.

Heavy Chekiang forces are now guarding the railway station, the South and North gates of Sungkiang and Kuotangbiao. At nine o'clock yesterday morning, the joint Kiangsu-Fukien forces made a desperate attack on the Shihhutang front. Some of the troops actually acrossed the creek spanned by the Bridge No. 31, but two battalions of Yang Huachao's Fukien veterans and one regiment of Chen Yao-shan's Fourth division arrived at 10 o'clock and the attack was stopped shortly after 11 o'clock.

The following telegram was received yesterday by General Lu from the Mukden warlord:

"Reports on the victory of our army at Chaipeng have already been sent to you. We have just received a report from secret men that Wang Huai-chang, who was wounded at Chaipeng, has died at the Peking Union Medical College. Peng Shou-hsin has been killed by our bombing airplane in the vicinity of the hotel at Shanhaikwan and his remains have been shipped back to Peking.

"It has been only a few days since we started our campaign against the national traitors, yet two of the three ring-leaders of the enemy forces have already been killed. Fate has certainly been kind to us. We are more than ever hopeful for the future of the Republic. The situation is developing more favorable to us every day; only a few scattered criminals are left in the Jehol region, where we are doing the necessary cleaning.

"The fall of Shanhaikwan is but a question of days. Within a short period we will be in Peking to appease the mind of the people and to comfort yourself who has been struggling so hard for the salvation of the people and of the country."

MUKDEN AMMUNITION FOR LOCAL WARRIORS

Rifle ammunition manufactured by the Mukden arsenal, numbering 20,000,000 rounds, has been shipped to Shanghai and sent to the various sectors for distribution. When the ship conveying the munition was docked in Pootung, an attempt was made on Sunday to set fire to the vessel by Kiangsu secret service men.

According to reports received at Lunghua, two hundred spies in civilian clothes came to Pootung by way of Kiangsu, armed with bombs and hand grenades. They discovered that the munition had been taken ashore on the previous day and left without carrying out their plot.

The Kuo Wen News Agency reports that two more battalions of Kiangsu troops have been transferred to Quinsan from Pingwan.

A large quantity of food, cigarettes, towels and medical supplies was sent to General Lu

Yung-hsiang yesterday by Mr. Sun Fu, former Mayor of Canton and Dr. Sun Yat-sen's personal representative at Mukden.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 5.—The Presidential Mandate dated October 4 pays a high tribute to the meritorious services as alleged to have been rendered to the Peking Government by General Sun Chuan-fang and General Hsia Chao and orders them immediately stop fighting so that they may devote themselves to the recovery of spirits of the populace in their province. The same Mandate further asks these two generals to apply to the Government for bestowal of rewards upon those military and civil officers who have rendered any meritorious services to the Central Government in connection with the recent coup d'etat in Chekiang.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 1.—According to foreign telegrams from Chefoo, representatives of Marshal Wu Pei-fu have issued instructions for all Chinese steamers arriving at Chefoo, Lungkow and Tengchow to be detained for two weeks, compensation to be paid by the Government.

Foreign reports from the Shanhaikuan front say that heavy firing occurred on the evening of September 29. Three carloads of wounded were evacuated on the Government side. The Fengtien casualties are not known. The three carloads of wounded would probably represent about fifty men. On the same evening a Fengtien aeroplane flew over the Northern troops and dropped bombs without doing any damage.

Mild artillery engagements and fairly heavy rifle firing occurred on this front on September 30.

The detachment of the 13th Division and the Yichun troops driven out of Chaoyang have retreated to Pingfang.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 1.—A Mandate issued last night appoints General Chen Kuang-yuan (former Tuchun of Kiangsi) and Admiral Tang Hsiang-ming (former Civil Governor of Hupei) Associate Judges of the Military Court of the Punitive Expedition.

Some curiosity was aroused yesterday among foreigners who saw engine drivers wearing the uniforms of military officers. It is understood that this is a precaution against interference by petty military officers.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 2.—General Nieh Hsien-fang, Acting Commandant of the Peking Gendarmerie, recently visited Miyunhsien. He was accompanied by the bodyguards of the Peking Commandant, and his return thus escorted gave rise to the report that General Wang Hua-ching had returned to Peking.

General Hu Ching-yi, Commandant of the 1st Shensi Division, recently sent one of his officers to Suiyuan to recruit men for his reserve. Four hundred of those recruits passed through Fengtai on the way to Tungchow yesterday.

The President has sent General Chow Meng-hsien to Shanhaikuan to express the President's appreciation of the behaviour of the Government forces in that region.

General Tsao Jui, Superintendent of Commissariat Affairs of the Punitive Expediton, took over his new duties yesterday when he established his headquarters at Peihai.

A special meeting of the Cabinet was held at the Cabinet Office this morning. No official report of the meeting has been given out, but it is understood that financial questions were discussed.

The Ministry of the Interior has issued an order appointing Mr. Wu Yung-tsai President of the Police Cadets Academy in succession to Mr. Liu Peng-chi. A second order appoints Mr. Chu Yun-han member of the preparation committee for affairs connected with the proposed Sino-Russian conference.

P. T. Raaschou, Danish Consul-General and former Senior Consul in Shanghai, who died at St. Marie's Hospital yesterday morning.

position when he left for Europe in 1922, and upon his return last April did not feel strong enough to resume the burden.

Mr. Raaschou's illness—a lung infection—was becoming serious in 1922, and in April that year he went to Europe on furlough, undergoing treatment for two years. He improved there, and was thought to be almost cured, but his desire to return to Shanghai, to which place he was much attached, induced him to come back here. His condition rapidly changed for the worse after his return, last April, and he finally went into St. Marie's Hospital. His disease was very far advanced, however, and only his exceptional vitality delayed the end, which came at 9 a.m. yesterday.

The deceased was a Commander of The Danish Dannebrog Order, of the Norwegian St. Olav, and the Swedish North Star Order, and was decorated with the Grand Cross of the Chia Ho Order. Until he was taken ill in 1922 and obliged to seek treatment in Europe, he was a well-known figure in the International community. He was a gifted violinist and an active member of the Chamber Music Society, for which he acted as librarian. He was also a well known curio collector and a keen sportsman, taking a special interest in hunting, golf and lawn bowls, and as late as 1921 he confirmed his reputation as an able tennis player by winning the Scandinavian Championship here.

Mr. Raaschou's many activities were very much appreciated by the local Danish community, and he enjoyed the reputation among his colleagues of the Consular body of a sharp juridical sense and great thoroughness, to which he added a vast experience of Consular practice in the Settlement during the past twenty years.

The body of the deceased is to be cremated, after which his ashes will be sent to Denmark to be deposited in his family's burial place there. The funeral will take place tomorrow, October 8, at 5 p.m., at Bubbling Well Cemetery. The members of the Consular Body, pallbearers, friends, and representatives of the Danish community here will meet at St. Marie's Hospital, whence the funeral cortege to the cemetery will start at 4:15.

Macdonald's supporters oppose an election in that connection, expressing the opinion that the Attorney-General should resign. These represent the section most anxious to fight on the Russian Treaty.

Mr. J. R. Clynes, the Deputy Leader of the House, interviewed by Reuter said that Labor had never shirked a challenge of either the Liberals or the Conservatives and was ready to meet the challenge of both. "Political leaders who have been compelled to swallow their brave words of abuse of Ireland and Germany," Mr. Clynes declared, "will later have to face the same ordeal as regards Russia."

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 4.—In an interview published in Reynold's Illustrated News, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald stated that he regretted that national interests were being sacrificed to party tactics, and that the business of the nation was being brought to a standstill while the Conservatives and the Liberals conspired to turn out the Government on a side issue. "My select committee," said the Premier, "to which I would appeal, is not ten members of the House of Commons, but the twenty million electors. While I do not seek a general election, I am not afraid of it. By creating a condition of things which no Government can accept, their action takes from the Government the authority it requires to conduct the business of the nation, both at home and abroad. It forces an election, and compels us to give up at a time when I think every patriotic motive should induce them to maintain the status quo. On a big issue, such as the policy of Russia and Geneva, or anything they like to raise, we are ready to meet their challenge".

Appeal Made For Relief Funds From Overseas Chinese

The National Flood Relief Drive Headquarters have announced that a circular telegram has just been sent in the name of Dr. Wellington Koo, Minister of Foreign Affairs, to Chinese representatives abroad asking their co-operation in raising funds among the owerseas Chinese for the benefit of the flood sufferers in China.

The ministers are asked to inform the Chinese consuls n the various countries to which they are accredited of efforts being mae here to raise funds, and not only to seek to raise funds themselves, but to get in touch with the local Chinese Red Cross societies and any other Chinese philanthropic organisations and co-operate in any measures they may take to help in the flood relief work.

made a total advance of one mile. They also crossed a small canal which was a very serious impediment and gained a position in a long line of trees which make an excellent screen for the light artillery.

Tonight the fighting is nothing more than sporadic machine gun and rifle fire with an occasional shell from the numerous mountain guns with which the Hunanese are equipped. These guns are proving extremely efficient as they are very portable.

The wounded are still streaming in from Tsingpu, not from any present action, but an aftermath of last week's fighting. The entire loss of this attack is estimated variously at from two to three thousand in wounded and dead for Kiangsu and an equal loss for Chekiang.

From the nature of the trenches that were dug and the amounts of fire wood and supplies being carried in the leaders are evidently planning on a long, drawn-out, affair. Whenever a soldier is questioned he insists that they will be in Shanghai within a week but from personal observation of the Chekiang counter attack I think that they have been very much under estimated.

The "Mystery" of Stocks and Bonds

MANY people hesitate to invest their accumulations in stocks and bonds because they lack infotmation. They feel, quite justly, that it is hazardous to put their money into securities which they know little or nothing about.

THERE is no real mystery about stocks and bonds. But it is perfectly true that expert knowledge of them is not widespread. Developments must be followed closely, and the average person cannot do this.

IT is our business to watch financial matters. We are in position to help you choose wisely. We shall be glad to give you information about any stocks, bonds, or other investments, and to assist in their purchase.

The new Ballet at the Del Monte was considerably strengthened on Saturday night by the appearance of Miss Vassilieff and Mr. Baskakoff, the leading dancers whose debut could not be made Wednesday night owing to an accident to Miss Vassilieff. Before a crowded house these two performers danced delightfully in a duet "Satyr and Nymph," proving themselves to be artistes of no small merit and being enthusiastically applauded. Miss Vassilieff is a dancer of considerable ability and charm while her partner was admirably fitted for the role he sustained. It is not difficult to prophesy a very successful season for them in Shanghai. The remainder of the performance was similar to that presented on Wednesday night and noticed in these columns, but tomorrow the management has arranged a complete change of program, in which some excellent numbers are promised.

As will be seen from the figures, no decisive alterations have taken place, and the majority of the "bourgeois" bloc, supporting the actual Conservative Cabinet, has not so far been changed into a Socialistic majority.

Judge M.D. Purdy Grants Decrees In Two Divorce Cases

Cruelty Charges Are Made By Wives In Both Applications

Samuel B. Fair at present serving a sentence for using bad language to his mother, and who has appeared in the U. S. Commissioner's Court on a number of occasions, was divorced from his wife, yesterday by Judge Milton D. Purdy, on the ground of cruelty and failure to support her and her five children.

Major C. P. Holcomb appeared for the petitioner.

Plaintiff in the witness stand deposed that defendant had been cruel to her and had beaten her on occasion to such an extent as to necessitate a doctor's attention. For the last seven years of her married life she had had trouble with the defendant until she had been forced to leave him a year ago. Since that time he had not contributed to her support or to that of the five children.

Corroborative evidence was given by Dr. A. Renner, Mr. N. K. Lurton and Mr. M. A. Rosario, and a decree was granted.

Another divorce was also granted in the U. S. Court yesterday when Mrs. Romona Harder, sued Orville Dewey Harder for divorce on the grounds of desertion and misconduct, Mr. M. L. Heen appearing for the plaintiff.

The case for the plaintiff was that the parties were married in San Francisco, in 1911, shortly afterwards defendant coming to Shanghai. While here he lived with another lady. He subsequently returned to the States, and in 1914, defendant and plaintiff returned to China, where shortly afterwards defendant deserted plaintiff, who had never heard of him since.

Evidence in corroboration of the charge of misconduct was given by Miss Dorothy Martins, who stated that in 1912, defendant who was engaged in a theatrical venture engaged her to dance and perform for him. Witness lived with defendant for four or five months he having stated that he was unmarried and promising to marry her. Later one of the men in defendant's company informed her that defendant was married and she communicated with her by letter, a copy of which was produced in Court.

A decree of divorce was granted.

Two Chihli-ite Division Routed

Changli station, there were six aeroplanes ready for immediate use. It is reported that an aerodrome has been newly constructed in the neighborhood of Changli. On September 30 a Fengtien aeroplane is said to have appeared over this last mentioned town and dropped five bombs, while on October 1 another Fengtien aeroplane made a reconnoitring flight over the same district. On October 2, twelve aeroplanes of the Chihli troops arrived in Changli and seven of them have been transported northward. It is reported that the majority of the Chihli troops, which had been transported to Lanchow by rail, have proceeded northward on foot. Judging from the fact that of late, very few Chihli troops have been transported by rail to Shanhaikwan, it seems probable that the Chihli troops have all proceeded northward either on foot or by carriages from each station on the line south of Chinwangtao. At Kuchi and Tangshan stations, there stood military trains full of soldiers, who appeard to be reserves, the main-force of the Chihli troops having long ago been despatched to all the fronts. It appears that the only work that remains to be done by the military authorities of the Government is to replenish provisions, munitions, and laborers.

(Eastern News Agency)

Mukden, October 6.—The General Headquarters of the Fengtien troops announce that the Fengtien Second Army commanded by General Li Ching-lin has already captured Chienpin and Lingyuan and is about to press on to Pingchuan. In the sector of Shanhaikwan, the main force of the Chihli troops having been concentrated there, it is believed that the time for a decisive battle between the two hostile troops is imminent. The Fengtien military authorities here prophesy that if the Fengtien forces should capture Jehol, the Chihli troops would without doubt make a proposal for armistice.

It is generally observed here, however, that the main forces of the Chihli troops under the commands of Generals Wang Chengpin and Feng Yu-hsiang having been despatched to that front the fall of Jehol will not be realised so easily.

(Eastern News Agency)

Mukden, October 6. With regard to the standpoint of the South Manchuria Railway vis-a-vis of the Chihli-Fengtien war, responsible officials of the railway state in part:—

"While it is true that part of the Fengtien troops have been transported by the Railway in compliance with the request of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, they have been handled as ordinary passengers, and in doing so, we are of the opinion, the railway has served its purpose as an organ of communication, and this move on the part of the railway, we are convinced, is in complete conformity with Japan's policy of non-interference in China's domestic affairs. We have been requested by Marshal Wu Pei-fu to transport the Chihli troops by the Smith Manchuria Railway when they enter Manchuria, and there can be no reason why we should take exception to his proposal; we gladly treat the Chihli troops just as well as the Fengtien forces. Taking into consideration the fact that Japan's special rights and interests in Manchuria have already been recognised by the Powers and have also been assured by the international legitimate treaty, it is utterly unthinkable that Japan's rights and interest in this part of China would be lost at once, no matter whoever may become the ruler of Manchuria."

Fukien Troops Hammer Shanghai's 'Back Door'

have the line in running order within several hours.

MORE SPIES CAUGHT

Both breaks were set to the account of spies, against whom an active campaign has been in progress for a number of days. Newspaper correspondents or missionaries in war zones who ask questions not being excepted from the suspicions of some of the soldiers, especially of those who came from the Ishing front. Yesterday two alleged spies in civilian clothes were captured near Minghong and six were sent down to general headquarters from the Huangtu front, while several other suspects were reported sent in from Sungkiang.

The steady tapping of the Fukien hammer on the Sungkiang anvil has not yet assumed the proportions of the attacks made in the past on the Huangtu front, but the number of Chekiang casualties coming down like flakes of cold iron is steadily on the increase. Possible extension of the fight to the south side of the Whangpoo was seen in the report that Chekiang had several hundred soldiers further up the river than Minghong on the Pootung side.

Malaria and dysentery have taken a firm hold on the soldiers in the past two weeks or so, but the sick men are not being sent down to hospital in Shanghai, as at first. The majority are attended by the doctors with the troops and get along as well they can in places where they can be used to swell the fighting force in a crisis.

Despite the indications of the Fukien attacks and the first cutting of the railway line, the main interest of the Chekiang leaders still seems to be manifested toward the Huangtu sector, the one nearest Shanghai. Generals Lu Yung-hsiang and Ho-Feng-lin visited this section in person Sunday in addition to the usual comings and goings from this zone of General Chwang Tse-ping, Yang Ho-tsao and Chen Loh-san. General Lu Hsiao-chiao went to Woosung the same day, but returned to Lunghua in time for an important conference thought to have been held there in the evening following the day's inspections.

The International Settlement and French Concession are actual barriers to the quick movements of the Chekiang troops because of the facts that no road outside them connects the Liuho motor road with Lunghua and the Minghong road and that armed and uniformed troops are not allowed inside the foreign settlements. The railway is most in use for troops movements though troops could be around by boat at times tide.

GALLOPERS BEAT TUNG WEN TEAM SCORE 13 TO 0

Japanese Nine Puts Up Poor Game; Bolton Makes Debut

The Gallopers defeated the Tung Wen College baseball team at Pioneer Field Sunday afternoon by a score of 13 to 0. The Japanese boys were rather easy picking, particularly on account of their atrocious fielding. They made seven unquestionable errors, and the number of misplays is considerably higher. The best evidence of their play is that the Gallopers got more runs than hits, and scored their first run purely on errors by the Japanese shortstop, without getting a single clean hit. They scored their seven runs in the second inning on three hits, three passes, and a comedy of errors and passed balls.

For the Gallopers a new man appeared, Bolton, who held the Japanese to three hits and fanned eight of them. In the seventh inning he struck them out in one-two-three order. Yesterday was not much of a trial, as the Japanese did not show up at all well, but the newcomer looks very good, and may be of considerable value.

Rice, a sailor from one of the American warships here, was plate umpire and gave an exhibition of lung-power seldom equalled in Shanghai. It is rumored that the Italian Opera Company has offered him a contract to sing Mephistopheles in "Faust", but at a late hour yesterday no confirmation could be obtained of this report.

Himrod Wins Local Championship In Clay Pigeon Shoot

A great deal of interest was centered in the Shanghai Championship Clay Pigeon Shoot, which took place on Sunday at the Clay Pigeon Club Grounds. There were 17 entries, 13 from the Clay Pigeon Club, 3 from the International Gun Club, and 1 from the Police Gun Club. The weather conditions at the outset were not all that could be desired, as there was a strong N.E. wind blowing which made the shooting at times extremely difficult. The conditions in the afternoon were very much better. After an exciting finish Mr. E. H. Himrod was declared the winner over Mr. W. J. Gande by one bird.

The Championship was followed by a Ladies nomination shoot; and this was won by Mr. A. P. Nazer, shooting for Mrs. Crokam.

The "Joe" Cup, kindly presented by Mr. F. Schwyzer, was competed for at the same time, and this was won by Mr. A. P. Nazer.

The conditions in the Championship were 100 Birds Leggett Trap from the Center stand. The following are the scores of those who completed the shoot:—

Himrod	87
Gande	86
McBain	84
Felicani	84
Schwyzer	83
Nazer	81
Moller	78
Morriss	74
Bates	67

The following competed, but retired during the contest:—Cattapan. Bell, Milne, Kent, Pirie, Beatty, Barrett and Read.

Shanghai Rifle And Revolver Club

The Shanghai Miniature Rifle and Revolver Club calls the attention of newcomers to the fact that there is a club here where instruction can be obtained in the use of the revolver, rifle, or automatic. The importance of such knowledge is manifest, particularly in these uncertain days.

This club was formed particularly to enable the community of Shanghai to learn and practice revolver shooting. It has a safe range, located at the corner of Siccawei Road and Route de Say Zoong, and there is an experienced instructor to teach any member the use of the revolver, automatic pistol or rifle. The Range is open daily from 9.30 a.m. 11.30 p.m.

Competitions will be held monthly for individual and team shooting. Intending members are requested to send their names and addresses to the Secretary, Mr. Thomas Freeman, Avenue Haig and 2 Route de Say Zoong, a short distance from Bubbling Well. The entrance fee is $10.00 per annum (from date of joining) which includes the wives and daughters of members.

Members are classified either as experts, marksmen or preliminary competitors, and hold meetings monthly, the usual conditions being five shots at 15 yards, left hand, 5 shots at 20 yards, either hand, and 10 shots at 25 yards, either hand. Prizes are awarded the winners.

Growth Of Harness Racing In America

There appears to be a real growth in harness racing in America recently. One example of this is shown by reports from Stockton, Cal., where a usually ordinary county fair meeting has been turned into a pretentious riding program, with excellent horses and, on the whole, a high standard of driving.

San Francisco visitors were so enthusiastic over the forepart of the meeting that many of the sportsmen returned for the race program.

It has generally been considered that the harness racing game is one for millionaries. That is true to a certain extent, yet it has been proved this year that inexpensive trotters and pacers sometimes make marvelous showings.

To be sure, the harness horse owner has to have something in the way of finances before he can start, but there are certainly enough men well equipped with this world's goods and themselves sufficiently interested to build up this game.

Harness racing was a wonderful sport in America years gone by, and there is every reason to believe it can regain its high standing, in spite of autos and other counter-attractions.

ABANDON BABIES WHEN QUINSAN IS FIRST OCCUPIED

Panic-Stricken Mothers Leave Youngsters In Rice Fields As They Escape

BY MILES A. GOLDRICK

Soochow, Sept. 6.—One of the most pathetic sides of the war is to be seen at the Elizabeth Blake Hospital in Soochow. In a dimly lighted, quiet ward there are twenty little cribs and in each one is a Chinese baby, a refugee from the battle zone.

When the soldiers first occupied the Quinsan area and the ravage and looting of the villages began these tiny children were left behind by panic stricken mothers. For the most part these children were found abandoned in the rice fields and all were near death from starvation.

Mr. Frank Price and his party of foreign relief workers gathered up as many as could be found and brought them to Soochow. Several of the missions have contributed clothing and food and a great number of philanthropic Chinese have come to the hospital for the purpose of adopting the children.

AGLEN HANDLES ISSUE OF PEKING'S $4,200,000 BONDS

Says He Does So On Understanding That Money Is Not Used For War

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 5.—In connection with the issue of Treasury bonds of the nominal value of $4,200,000, arrangements for which have been completed, Sir Francis Aglen states that he undertook their service on the understanding that the proceeds should be devoted exclusively to civilian and administrative expenses and the maintenance of peace and order in the capital during the period of the crisis, adding that satisfactory arrangements for giving effect to the understanding have been made by the Government.

It is stated that Marshal Chang Tso-Lin has threatened to seize the Manchurian Maritime Customs if this issue is carried out.

"La Traviata"

Before a comfortably filled house last night A. Carpi presented the third of Verdi's great operatic masterpieces, "La Traviata." The audience was treated to the full gamit of human emotions as the play shifted from scene to scene portraying gaiety, love, tenderness jealosy, hate, lust, sorrow, contrition, all developed from the beautiful love scenes of Violetta and Alfred, changing to tragedy as the play develops the story of the thwarfted love with its bitter sorrow and pain, expatiated only by death.

Again Miss Surinach demonstrated her artistic ability in her rendition of the charming Violetta, and Gilletta as Alfred the lover, rose to the heights required for the part. The supporting parts were not as strong as might have been expected, and there was a noticeable drag throughout the play, but the audience was in a receptive mood, and full appreciation was accorded to every deserving score.

"La Tosca" will be the offering tonight, and A. Carpi emphasises a special treat, in that Madam Teracini, a Roumanian opera star, makes her debut in Shanghai. She was specially selected for this tour in Milan by the leading director there, who selects all the artists for the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York.

Or, The Easy Life Is The One With The Biggest Kick

BY TALBOT PATRICK

You who love to taste that last added spice, the ultimate zest of a situation, think of the incongruous and fatal contrast when you go to the opera tonight.

Fifteen miles away, simple men are sending, each other whistling breaths of death wrapped in close shrouds of steel. Others use the glimmering rays of a young moon to direct hacking stabs at each other's flesh. Lives are hurtled through the barrier of the Unknown Beyond. Reality rules the fields with stark horror.

Here we have soft delights.

The most emotional of all the arts cunningly bears us up in the excitation of one of its finest manifestations. Vicariously we drink the distillates of love and hate, revenge and sacrifice. Yet, how gently we are protected all the while from too great feeling.

Not only are we spectators and auditors of others in the dramas of life, but ever and again we are reminded by the bow of an actor, the fall of the curtain that all is no more than drama. Between the acts a liqueur tickles the palate after the delicate seasoning of our evening's dinner, light talk flutters between a beautiful woman and the conventional black and white form beside her.

Why did those mimic stabs in "Pagliacci" tighten my throat as the grisly wounded figures in their silent agonies never did?

Extract from the North China Daily News of September 22nd.

Autumn is here, and with her has come a profusion of lovely fashions, which, like the first colourful leaves of Autumn, have descended upon us at an unexpected moment, vividly prophetic of the modes that will prevail in the world of fashion during the winter season. Despite the simplicity of line there is no lack of variety in the fashions of the new season. Fabrics were never so beautiful, trimmings never more exquisitely lovely, nor were details ever more charmingly complete and correct. Godet treatments, scarfs, stoles and capelets are only a few of the details that acquit the new Autumn modes of the slightest suggestion of monotony and lift them far above the fashions of other years in beauty, variety and charm. True to prophecy the sued-finished fabrics are in highest favour for suits, coats, etc. It is a far cry from the heavy, bulky fabrics of yesterday to the softly-clinging woolens of to-day. For street garments brown is a great favourite, ranging from the exquisite russet and copper tones to a rather subdued malay. On the street one sees also quite a few coats in soft mahogany tones. Artichoke and other soft greens are seen, and a revival of gray is suggested by the number of coats appearing in dark shades of taupe or mole. Linings are most important. Satin and crepe linings continue much in vogue and many interesting effects are secured through the use of plaid or striped kasha. Evening wraps are mainly of rich brocades, velvet or satin. Occasionally one sees an evening wrap of crepe satin or even very sheer material. These wraps of lighter weight usually depend on a soft lining of printed velvet for warmth. Oftentimes they are reversible.

The above might well have been written after a visit to our Drapery Department, for it so aptly describes the modes. Why not call and inspect the Autumn Display?

HUGHES SUPPORTS PRES. COOLIDGE FOR PRESIDENCY

Says Americans Want Disarmament Without Hurting Own Policy

(Reuter's American Service)

Cincinnati, October 4.—Mr. C. E. Hughes, Secretary of State, in a speech to support President Coolidge's presidency campaign said the issue was "why change?" For example if the Democrats were permitted to administer the Government they would rewrite the tariff with all the resulting confusion to commerce. He regretted the introduction of foreign affairs into the campaign, but declared the record of President Coolidge was so well known that the insinuations of his detractors would recoil upon themselves.

Americans, continued the Secretary of State, favoured the reduction of armaments, but must be permitted to co-operate with other nations to that end without sacrifice of America's own policies.

Mr. Hughes laid stress on the incongruity of the Democrats attacking the Government for not joining the League of Nations, while their own platform avoided immediate action in that direction by declaring for a referendum with regard to it.

AMERICAN LADY HELD TWO HOURS BY CANTON POLICE

Mrs. Decker Subjected To Indignity In Barred Police Cell

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Oct. 6.—Mrs. Harvey L. Decker, the wife of the manager of the Canton City Transportation Company, was on October 4 subjected in Canton to the indignity of rough-handling, jostling, jeering and finally of detention in a barred police-cell by a force of 20 armed and unarmed Chinese policemen.

Mrs. Decker, who suffers from delicate health, went to the police-station in connection with a demand for a police-tax, her husband being engaged on business. On her pleading exemption from the tax on the ground that the Transportation Company was a foreign corporation the policemen probed her ribs with the muzzles of their revolvers, dragged her off her motor-car and carried her into the cell.

The victim endeavored to communicate with the American Consul-General, but was prevented by police officials from doing so. After nearly two hours, Mr. Decker was informed of his wife's predicament and invoked the assistance of the American Consul, who proceeded to the station and secured Mrs. Decker's release.

COOLIDGE SAYS U.S. UNWILLING TO BE LED BY OTHERS

Wont Have Others Decide For Them How To Make Up Their Minds

(Reuter's American Service)

Washington, Oct. 4.—Dedicating today a monument in honor of American soldiers who perished in the Great War, President Coolidge reiterated the opinion of Americans who while favoring the world Court and world disarmament were "unwilling to have any Power or combination of Powers decide for them how to make up their minds".

Mussolini Favors Continuous Rule And Discipline

(Reuter's Service)

Milan, Oct. 5.—"A Government composed of mediocrities, which is subject to interruption." "No nation becomes powerful unless it is disciplined."

These two dicta were enunciated by Signor Mussolini in a speech to the Constitutional Association in which the Premier reviewed the achievements of Fascism, its social legislation, and its respect for the King, the Church and the Constitution, which had made it a world wide topic in the past two years, drawing many from as far as China, Japan and Australia to study it. "Evidently those countries are suffering from lack of authority as Italy was before October, 1922.

Signor Mussolini announced the reopening of Parliament on November 10 in order to discuss decree laws, international treaties, the Budget and the reorganisation of the Army.

The Fascistis, the Premier said, desired peace among parties, but their opponents must first accept established facts.

Approaching The Limit Height In Pole Vaulting

Back in 1912 Bob Gardner, the golf star of today, competing for Yale, set a new collegiate pole vault record of 13 feet 1 inch.

It has been twelve years since Gardner leaped to fame by rising above the 13-foot mark. That's quite a span.

But in those following dozen campaigns only one scant inch has been added to Gardner's feat. Dean Brownell, University of Illinois, cleared 13 feet 2 inches at the Big Ten meet last year. This mark still stands as the American collegiate record.

Have the college vaulters reached the maximum in height? Judging from their scant accomplishments in the past twelve years it would appear that such is the case. Since Gardner's spectacular vault our universities have produced many firstclass vaulters, but not one, with the single exception of Brownell, has been able to outdo the Eli man's 1912 jump.

From 1902 to 1912 some 18 inches were added to the mark, 11 feet 6 inches being considered a topnotch effort a little over a decade ago.

Charles Dvorak of Michigan was one of the best in the country along about the beginning of the twentieth century. He was good for around 11 feet 6 inches every time out.

Then came Martin Dole, Stanford and others with leaps of 12 feet and 12 feet 6 inches, followed by Gardner and Brownell, and there it was stopped.

True, stars like Frank Foss and Mark Wright have bettered Brownell's performance, but not as college athletes. Ralph Spearow, University of Washington man, who went over with the 1924 Olympic team, has been credited with a leap of 13 feet 6 inches in practice, but in actual competition has fallen far below that figure. In the recent international games he failed miserably.

Track and field records—most of them—are being smashed every season, but the pole vault sees very few changes.

SOVIET CONSULATE HERE RAISES RED FLAG OF U. S. S. R.

tries, including western Europe, America, and Australasia.

A little before noon the Municipal Band, which had been engaged for the occasion, struck up the "International," the song which the Soviet Union has adopted as their own. This was repeated, and the crowd in the Consulate Garden stood with bared heads as the Soviet emblem was slowly raised to the top of the flagstaff.

This was followed by a formal ceremony inside the Consulate, where Mr. Elleder, the Soviet Consul, received congratulations from Chinese officials and representatives of Russian concerns here. The Consul himself made a short speech, and proposed a toast to the raising of the Soviet flag in Shanghai, and to Russian-Chinese friendship. Following this Mr. Fromberg, of the Dalbank here, extended the Consul congratulations on behalf of the various Russian economic organs in Shanghai, and drank to the consolidation of the economic bonds between Russia and China.

Among the Chinese officials who came to present their congratulations to the Consul were Gen. Lu Yung-hsiang, Commander-in-Chief of the United Army, Mr. S. K. Chen, Chief Secretary of the Bureau of Foreign Affairs, Mr. N. T. Yang, Secretary of the Commissioner for Foreign Affairs and the Military Governor for Sungkiang and Shanghai, Colonel Loh Yung-chien, Acting Commissioner of Police for Shanghai and Woosung, Mr. Chow Ting, Russian Secretary of the Bureau of Foreign Affairs for Kiangsu, Mr. Yao Yoh, Superintendent of Customs, Mr. Yu Ya-ching, Chairman of the General Chamber of Commerce here, and Mr. Fong Chu-pa, Vice-Chairman of the Chamber.

The many judicial officials present included Magistrates Yui, Li, Han, Loh, and Shao, of the International Mixed Court here, Mr. H. S. Che, Chief Procurator of the District of Shanghai, Mr. Yung Lih, City Magistrate of Shanghai, Mr. S. C. Chen, President of the District Court of Shanghai, Mr. Nieh Tsung-shi, Senior Magistrate of the French Mixed Court here, and Mr. Chen Chi-zui, Magistrate of the same Court.

Mr. Elleder was assisted in his duties by Mr. Cherkassoff, Secretary of the Consulate, and Mr. Niu Shao-lin, Chinese Secretary.

At the beginning and the close of the formalities the band played the "International," the throng of Russians joining in the song.

The walls of the room where the ceremony took place was decorated with pictures of Soviet and Socialist leaders. Most prominent was a large drawing of Lenin, with a picture of Karl Marx across from it. A great strip of red bunting on the wall bore the words, in Russian "Workers of all countries unite." Small red flags, bearing the Soviet emblem, were distributed to all the guests.

SPEECHES IN EVENING

In the evening there was seen brightly illuminated the red Soviet star on the roof of the building. The hall inside was draped in red, and a great strip of red bunting, under the pictures of Lenin and Marx, bore the words—"Lenin the Emblem; Leninism the Weapon; The Communist Revolution the Aim." Mr. Elleder opened the affair, extending greetings to all present.

Mr. Aramow, the first speaker, spoke of the seven-year struggle of the Soviet Revolution with internal and external foes, fighting against armed forces from all the great powers of the world. The power which Russia mustered to struggle against her foes, and finally to defeat them, came from the resolve of Russia's workers and peasants to achieve victory over their enemies. Today was a big day in the diplomatic history of Soviet Russia. "Long live the foreign policy of Soviet Russia."

Mr. Fromberg greeted the Consul and the assembly in the name of the Russian economic organisations here. Today was a great day, when over this building, constructed by and dedicated to predatory imperialism, was raised the red flag of Soviet Russia, the emblem of international brotherhood. Over the structure which formerly housed the representatives of Russian czarism there now shone the red star of the Russian revolution, the hope of the world. He looked forward to the day when there would be a world union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Mr. Kossolapoff, of the Soviet Youth, referred to Russia's open diplomatic policy, which astounded both the predatory powers and China. They could not understand Russia's voluntary relinquishment of her special rights and privileges in China, particularly extra-territoriality. He concluded with a glowing tribute to Lenin, the great leader of the international proletariat to the new Communist world.

An Australasian Bolshevik extended greetings from the Communist Party there. He said he wished that Marx could be present upon this historic occasion, to see the raising of the red flag. Marx was a great leader, now followed by millions throughout the world, who worked in various ways, some through political activities, some through labor unions, some through purely educational work, but the aim was the same. He extended greetings from the proletariat of Australasia to the Russian people. Lenin was now dead, but his work would go on forever, as would also the red flag of labor.

Mr. Wilde, speaking as a citizen of Soviet Russia, said that from the beginning the Chinese people had greeted the Russian revolution with friendship, but the influence of foreign powers, with their predatory aims, had prevented China from coming to an agreement with new Russia. For years they had succeeded in delaying matters, but now their work was done. They had failed, and Russia and China enter into relations of friendship and good will.

CHINESE SPEAKERS

A representative of the Kuomintang made a lengthy speech, greeting the opening of the Consulate and the raising of the red flag here. The day would come when Chinese labor would raise the red flag over all China.

A representative of the Anti-Imperialist Association also spoke.

He contrasted the Soviet attitude of peace and good-will to the arrogance of other powers and said that the Chinese people knew the Soviet Government as their friend.

A representative of Chinese labor unions here also spoke, congratulating the Russian people upon their emancipation from the yoke of Czarism.

Mr. Doyenin, of the New Shanghai Life, greeted the Soviet Consulate in the name of his paper. Though there were differences of opinion on political programs, they had to recognise the great significance of the day as one of Russia's big victories on the international diplomatic front. Soviet Russia was winning on this front. If the international position of Soviet Russia three years ago was recalled all would understand the importance of the present occasion, and it is in memory of this that they congratulate the Consul and the Government he represented.

A chorus sang the Funeral March, devoted to the victims of Czarism in Russia, following which all joined in the "International." Consul Elleder thanked all present, and trusted that the friendship seen between Russians and Chinese this day, and their common participation in the program, was a real pledge of future friendship.

Following this refreshments were served, and at the conclusion there were revolutionary songs by the Communist Youth, while a number of Red sailors from western countries sang "The Red Flag" and other songs in English. Red carnations were given to the guests as souvenirs.

James Craig Given Ovation Upon His Return To Belfast

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 4.—Sir James Craig received an ovation from a large crowd on his return to Belfast from London today.

Addressing them, the Ulster Premier said that Ulster was confronted with a fresh crisis. He had only one remark to make. Pointing to a Union Jack carried by the demonstraors, he declared: "That is our flag!" His health had recovered and he was again fit to lead Ulstermen however grave the situation.

Executive Committee Of Bible Union Of China Meets Here

The Executive Committee of the Bible Union of China has been holding a meeting in Shanghai at which the progress and work of the Union was under review.

The meeting was held in the Committee Room adjoining the new office of the Bible Union at 5 Quinsan Gardens.

A statement and resolutions on policy, which have been long under consideration, was formally adopted, in which the general aim and program of the Union as set forth in its original statement was reaffirmed and amplified. The present statement makes it still more clear that while the Union "will not shrink from exposing and resisting erroneous teaching regarding the character and authority of the Bible, and of the fundamental truths contained in it," yet the main object of the movement is to contend in behalf of the faith. "It is our purpose by every means in our power and in every way that presents itself in the Providence of God, to deepen understanding of the Bible, and to strengthen confidence in the Bible throughout the China Mission Field."

The statement emphasises the decisive effect of the introduction of modernist teaching into the Mission Field, and the increasing difficulties of continued co-operation in our fulfilment of the missionary commission where contradictory views of the authority of the Bible are held.

A paper which had been prepared in explanation of the formation of the Bible Union of China, and of its aims, for the information of new missionaries on arrival in the field and for others who are interested, was accepted for publication.

The relationship of local meetings of Bible Union members to the whole body of the Union was under discussion. A resolution was passed which, while recognising the freedom of local groups to independent action in the common cause, yet disclaimed responsibility on the part of the Bible Union of China for actions or statements which had not received the previous sanction of its central committee.

The special dangers that beset such a movement as the Bible Union of China were thoroughly recognised. The presence of dangers, however, it was felt should be no deterrent in a just and holy cause, although they rightly call for continual watchfulness and complete dependence on a higher than human power.

Hussein's Abdication Eases Situation; Emir Ali Accepts Throne

(Reuter's Service)

Cairo, Oct. 5.—An official telegram announces that the eldest son of ex-King Hussein, Emir Ali, today accepted the throne of Hedjaz, but not the Caliphate.

The Hedjaz National Committee states that Emir Ali was offered the throne on condition that he conformed with the wishes of the people of Hedjaz.

(Reuter's Service)

Port Sudan, Oct. 5.—The fall of the Hashimite Government and the abdication of King Hussein has eased the situation. Negotiations with the enemy are expected shortly.

The throne was offered to Emir Ali who, however, declined it.

Huge Liquor Plot Uncovered In U.S.

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, Oct. 4.—A British steamer was today towed into the harbor with the crew of 28 men and 2 women under armed guard. It is alleged that the vessel carried a cargo of liquor worth $5,000,000. Prohibition officials claim, in connection with the seizure of the vessel, the discovery of a gigantic Anglo-American rum-running conspiracy involving $10,000,000.

PEPS Banish BRONCHITIS

IT is an awful feeling to be conscious of bronchitis tightening its grip on your chest, and the breathing becoming more and more obstructed by the accumulation of phlegm and mucus in the windpipe and throat.

Coughing can't be kept up long without injury to the tissues. Cough you must, though your eyes feel bursting by the racking exertion, your head aches, and your chest is painful at the back, front and sides.

The first symptom of the acute form is tightness or soreness of the chest right behind the upper part of the breast bone, with a little hoarseness and tickling at the back of the throat, and with this is a very annoying hacking, dry cough which sets up inflammation.

POWERFUL MEDICINAL FUMES.

Bronchitis gets more distressing as winter approaches unless the sufferer adopts the proper treatment, which is supplied by Peps, the wonderful breathe-able remedy.

When the handy little Peps tablet is stripped of its silver jacket and placed in the mouth, powerful medicinal fumes are given off which impregnate the air we breathe with all the chest-strengthening virtues of the pine forest, and as this medicinal air is breathed down the windpipe (where liquid medicine cannot pass), the cure is at once begun.

The obstructive phlegm is loosened and expectorated from the bronchial tubes; breathing is made easy; and an end is quickly put to the chest-racking cough. Peps completely banish all the terrors of bronchitis.

Peps are the famous breathable tablets for Coughs, Colds & Chills, etc., are obtainable in sealed glass bottles, of medicine dealers in Shanghai, Hongkong, The Straits. Agents Messrs. Wakefield & Co, China) Ltd. Szechuen Rd., Shanghai.

Cool and Comfortable

COOL, comfortable, and so good-looking! That is the reason why Keds are so popular. They give your feet perfect freedom, yet you know that your feet look neat and well shod.

Keds are made for everybody. There are numerous models for many purposes, high shoes, low shoes, light, trim shoes for girls and women, sturdy, reinforced models for active boys and men. More and more people are wearing Keds.

Keds are made of firm, finely woven canvas. The soles are of tough, durable rubber. They are always well shaped—the details of finishing are done with skill learned by years of experience. Be sure you get real Keds and not a substitute for Keds.

If the name KEDS is not on the shoes, they are not real Keds.

THREE RADICALS BREAK INTO TOKIO FOREIGN OFFICE

Ruffians Are Arrested After Insulting Officials At Ministry

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 6.—This afternoon three members of a reactionary society, the so-called Patriotic Society, forcibly entered the Foreign Office for a demonstration against Japan's policy vis a vis China, distributing handbills setting forth their views regarding the country's proper policy. They entered the Minister's room, which was empty, and encountering other officials they roughly treated them. The ruffians were finally arrested.

The men drove up in a motor car and demanded an interview with the Minister. On being informed that he was absent, they forced their way into the room and afterwards proceeded to neighboring rooms and corridors, where they roughly handled secretaries and other officials and committed other outrages. Simultaneously, they declared "Japan has been shamed by the weak-kneed policy of the Government towards China."

The police were summoned, and arrested the ruffians with difficulty.

Handbills were distributed in which it was declared that the safety of Japan's subjects in China as well as her economic interests did not allow her to remain a passive onlooker with regard to China's present disturbances; and, it was added, unless a proper policy were adopted now it would be too late when the war should spread to Japan's sphere of interest.

South China Red Army Is Being Organised By Ex-Governor Of Canton

Southern Leaders Repudiate Authority Of Dr. Sun In Addressing League Of Nations As Their Spokesman

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Sept. 30.—Countering the recent telegram from Dr. Sun Yat-sen to the president of the League of Nations at Geneva complaining of the alleged intervention of the British naval authorities in Canton affairs and the non-reply of Mr. Ramsay Macdonald to his protest, Cantonese leaders have sent a cable to the League declaring that Dr. Sun is not the spokesman of South China.

Ex-Governor Liao Chung-ho is devoting his attention chiefly to the proposed Red Army. Mr. Liao, as chief of the labor division of the Kuomnntang Political Party, has a large following of unemployed coolies willing enough to be enlisted in the service. He has a staff of 48 Russians assisting him. Some 550 young men, mostly Northern Chinese, including many Mongolians and Manchurians, together with a number of Koreans, are being trained at Whampoa, Kwangtung, to be officers of the "South China Red Army." Only five or six Cantonese are at the Whampoa institution. Among the instructors are two Japanese.

The Volunteers of 138 cities and towns in Kwangtung recently organised with Commandant Chan Lim-Pak of the Canton Merchants Volunteers Corps as their Commander-in-chief and Lieutenant Commandant Tang Kai-shek of Canton and Commandant Chan Kung-shak of Fatshan as lieutenant-commander-in-chiefs have publicly announced that they will not recognise Gen. Li Fook-lum appointed by Dr. Sun Yat-sen as the new head of the volunteer movement in Kwangtung. They declare that the volunteers are self-supporting and are equipped for self-defence only the volunteers are subject to the general supervision of the authorities alone.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen's mercenaries, lately concentrated at Sheklung, have withdrawn to Shektan, a town west of Sheklung and nearer to Canton. Dr. Sun appears to be conceding the Eastern districts wholly to his rival, General Chen Chiung-ming, without the expected struggle.

Dr. Sun's hopes as regards his Northern expedition were shattered the other day, it is stated, when Marshal Chang Tso-lin informed him that he was unable to remit any cash but would be glad to find room for him if he had to leave Canton for a safer place. Moreover, a division of Marshal Wu Pei-fu's army has entered Namyung, on the borders of Kwangtung and Kiangsi, thus cutting Dr. Sun off from land communications with Marshal Chang.

To guard against possible mutiny by Generals Fan Shek-shang and Liao Heng-chao of the Yunnanese mercenaries in Canton General Hsu Tsung-chi is massing his forces around Canton. In addition to a possible struggle within Dr. Sun's own faction General Chen Chiung-ming's forces are marching towards Canton and have arrived at Tsengshin.

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, Oct. 4.—Mr. Hu Han-min, who was recently appointed Civil-Governor of Kuangtung and who has since been hesitant to assume the new post, yesterday officially took up the Civil-Governorship. It is understood that Mr. Ku Ying-fen will also assume his new post tomorrow as Secretary of Finance of the Canton Government.

Troops Wanted For Canal Protection, Asserts Premier

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 4.—Reuter learns from an Egyptian source with reference to the conclusion of the Anglo-Egyptian conversations in London that Mr. Ramsay MacDonald yesterday informed Zaghlul Pasha that it was impossible to withdraw the British troops from Egypt because they were needed for the protection of the Suez Canal. Zaghlul Pasha's proposal to leave the protection of the Canal to the League of Nations was not accepted by Mr. MacDonald who proposed an Anglo-Egyptian Alliance, to which Zaghlul Pasha agreed but said that this was impossible while British troops remained in Egypt, to which Mr. MacDonald replied that the troops were not for the protection of Egypt but for the protection of the Canal.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

London.—Zaghlul Pasha after his last interview with Mr. Macdonald left London. He will shortly return to Egypt.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS
The Children's Own Medicine.

Reasons Why No Home Where There Are Little Ones Should Be Without Them.

It is a mistake to give 'grown-up' medicine to little children. What they need is something made specially to suit their own delicate little insides. That is just what Baby's Own Tablets are; pleasant little pellets which crush up easily into a powder or can be eaten like sweets; so absolutely harmless that they can be administered to the youngest babe with perfect safety.

The action of the Tablets is thorough yet gentle. They dispel constipation, correct indigestion, stop colic, reduce fever, check diarrhoea, relieve colds and croup, allay teething pains, quiet the nerves, quickly induce peaceful health-restoring sleep in a perfectly natural way. They also expel worms.

Administered in time, Baby's Own Tablets have saved many little lives. Let them protect your home and happiness. Of chemists, or post free 6 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

Red Flag Raised Over Soviet Embassy

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 5.—The ceremony of hoisting the Soviet flag over the Soviet Embassy was duly observed at 11.40 a.m. In the course of his address to the guests present, M. Karakhan, Soviet Ambassador, stated in part; "It has already elapsed some four months since the conclusion of the Soviet-Mukden agreement owing to various obstacles, but fortunately enough, we on this day have the honor of hoisting the Soviet's red flag aloft on the top of the pole here. We, the people of the Soviet Republics, do this as the leader of the people, who have been oppressed in the Orient, as well as for the sake of mankind of the whole world."

In response to the foregoing, several congratulatory addresses were delivered by a few prominent Chinese, including Dr. C. T. Wang.

American Wheat Growers Losing Foreign Markets

Department Of Commerce Investigator Thinks U.S. May Have To Abandon Export Of Wheat

New York, Sept. 15.—Have American wheat growers any real chance for survival in the export trade? This is the question raised by Mr. Theodore D. Hammatt, an investigator of the Department of Commerce at present engaged in a study of the American wheat situation, in an article written for the current issue of Foreign Affairs (New York). The answer is not very encouraging for the American farmer.

A review of competitive conditions, Mr. Hammatt says, would seem to support the judgment of American farmers who have reduced their planted acreage of 76,683,000 acres in 1919, to 57,111,000 in 1924, thus apparently indicating their belief that the only safe policy for them to pursue is strictly to limit their production to the needs of the home market.

"In deciding upon a permanent wheat policy for the United States," writes Mr. Hammatt, "the long view is more important than the short, and the long view lends little encouragement to the belief that large scale production of wheat on the part of the United States will prove profitable."

In his survey of the situation leading to these conclusions, Mr. Hammatt points out that the war dislocated the whole international trade in breadstuffs. "The closing of the Dardanelles," he says, "blocked the outward movement from Russia. The length of the sea routes and the hazards of the voyage restricted the flow from Australia and the Argentine. India's exports fell off sharply. In western Europe itself production greatly decreased. The responsibility of meeting the new demand devolved upon North America, and influenced both by the rising price of wheat and by patriotic motives the United States and Canada responded with enlarged acreages and heavier shipments.

"This produced shift in the accustomed sources of supply for practically all importing nations produced new competitive factors in the markets of the world, and these persisted even when peace returned. In the five years before the war the six principal countries growing a surplus of wheat were the United States, Russia, India, Canada, Argentina and Australia. The average annual production of the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia during these five years was about 1,126 million bushels, and that of Russia and India 1,015 million bushels, making a total production for the six countries of 2,141 million bushels.

"In sharp contrast, the average annual production of the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia for the post-war period 1920-1923 was 1,507 million bushels, and that of Russia and India 621 million bushels. In other words, the first four countries increased their production by 381 million bushels, and the other two countries decreased their production by 394 million bushels. The basis for the remarkable gains of the first group of nations is the increase in acreage, which in Canada amounted to 129 percent, in Australia to 32 percent, in the United States to 16 percent, and in Argentina to 6 percent."

From these figures Mr. Hammatt deduces that as an exporter of wheat the United States must compete chiefly with Canada, Argentina and Australia. But the increase in the yearly exports of these countries has left less room for American wheat in the world's markets. "The back-pressure of more bountiful harvests in importing countries," he writes, "and the reappearance of Russian wheat in quantity—developments which may be expected to occur—would render competitive conditions still more difficult."

"The 'cost of producing a bushel of wheat'—an elusive term at best—cannot be ascertained for the various exporting countries. But it is not necessary to know the exact figures before conceding that production costs in the United States run higher than in Canada, Argentina or Australia. The higher charge against the American crop for the use of land or labor, or both, as compared with the charge in any one of the competing countries, is good evidence of the fact; while the progressive decrease since 1919 in wheat acreage in the United States, compared with the steady increase in the areas under cultivation in Canada, Argentina and Australia again indicates a lower cost of production in these three countries. American wheat growers when weighing their chances of survival in the export trade, would be wise, in the light of such facts as are known, to make allowance for production costs substantially higher than those of their competitors.

"A decided handicap which the United States faces is that the wheat which it exports is for the most part mediocre in quality. The United States affords a better home market than is enjoyed by the farmers of any other surplus-producing country, domestic consumption exceeding exports by about four to one, and consequently our best wheat is kept out of foreign markets. American bakers and housewives are exacting and the mills grind the best of the wheat, paying a premium for the privilege, while foreign buyers must content themselves with what is left. This is the basis for the allegation that American offerings lack quality. The premium our fancy wheats carry in the home market is, of course, a boon to our wheat growers, but it does not strengthen the position of the United States as an exporter.

"Whether it is expedient for the United States, all things considered, to devote to the growing of wheat sufficient land, labor, and capital to produce a surplus for export is a pressing question. The farmers, of course, will decide it for themselves. The progressive reduction of the planted acreage from 76,683,000 acres in 1919 to 57,111,000 acres in 1924 suggest that many farmers may have come to the conclusion that a reduction of production to the capacity of the home market is the safest policy. If so, this hasty review of competitive conditions given in the preceding paragraphs would seem to support their judgment.

"Just now, at the beginning of the crop year 1924-25, trade reports indicate a smaller exportable surplus in Canada and the United States and a greater European demand than in 1923-24, a prospect for which allowance is being made in current prices. Only about one-sixth of the world's wheat crop usually enters into international trade, so a decrease of even five percent of the total production brings about a sharp reduction in exportable supplies. The world market may rule higher in the coming year than in the last. We hope it will. But that is not the main point. In deciding upon a permanent wheat policy for the United States, the long view is more important than the short, and the long view lends little encouragement to the belief that large scale production of wheat on the part of the United States will prove profitable."

See Kee Rubber Estates

The annual general meeting of the See Kee Rubber Estates was held yesterday afternoon, at which Mr. C. H. Rutherford presided, supported by Mr. R. N. Swann and Mr. G. Grayrigge (Directors) and Mr. W. S. Royston, representing the secretaries.

The chairman said:

Gentlemen,—You will notice in the Directors' Report that the statistics of yields and costs as hitherto published have been discontinued altogether. Compulsory restriction, changes of tapping systems and annual restings render such figures quite useless and misleading. Statistics are only of value for comparison when an estate is in full and free production.

During the year the estate was re-assessed and the standard production was reduced from 191,972 lbs. to 178,000 lbs. which latter is equivalent to 400 lbs. per acre, the maximum allowed by the Restriction Ordinance.

Restriction on See Kee is no sham. The estate in full tapping could produce over 200,000 lbs. per annum, as against the allowance for the past fiscal year of 110,394 lbs.

During the year it seemed at one time that the Dutch would defeat the British efforts to put the rubber-producing industry on a livable basis and matters looked very serious in May-June. Since then we have cut the British production another 5% to 55% of standard production and prices have strengthened, but unless the sale price average 15 pence London terms for August-October, we shall reduce production to 50% for November-January. The value of restriction is now being truly tested. So far, it has been the salvation of the industry and would certainly have proved a sweeping success imposing hardship on nobody, had not the Dutch persisted in riding on its back like the Old Man of the sea.

The Dutch might have some difficulty in introducing compulsory restriction in the lands they govern, but where there's a will there's always a way.

In the circumstances, the average price realised for our sales viz 47.40 cents or the equivalent of 13¼ pence must be considered satisfactory. On the other hand, the small crop meant a higher cost of production than the previous year. Very drastic steps have recently been taken towards reducing the handicap of big overhead expenses and I hope to come before you next year to report a much decreased cost of production.

Estate matters gave us no anxiety; indeed, the property has been excellently conducted although the expenditure was a continual source of contention. The Factory Division some miles away has not been tapped since last December and Main Division was rested during the wintering. Small crops, conservative tapping, and resting, all give vitality to the trees, and bark reserves, not only on See Kee but in Malaya as a whole, must now be mounting up, whereas it is said the Dutch, out for a catchpenny profit, are rapidly using up their bark.

The result of the year's work is disappointing, the profit being only Taels 3,026.82, which, deducted from the balance of loss brought forward, leaves us still with a debit in profit and loss account of Taels 29,599.29 to be carried forward. I want particularly to emphasise that despite this debit, the Company owes not one cent and has money in the Bank.

RESOLUTIONS

There being no questions, the following resolutions were submitted to the meeting and passed:

That the Directors' report and statement of audited accounts for the financial year ended June 30, 1924 as presented be adopted and passed.

That Mr. C. H. Rutherford, the retiring Director, be and hereby is re-elected a Director of the Company.

That Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews be and are hereby re-elected Auditors to the Company for the ensuing year.

New Finance Act Of Great Britain Is Passed Into Law

The new British Finance Act just been passed into law, and contains certain provisions of interest to residents abroad, as follows:—

(1). The allowance of £45 in respect of housekeeper and widowed mother, is increased to £60.

(2). The Housekeeper allowance may now be claimed whether any child is being taken care of by such housekeeper or not.

(3). An appeal may now be made to the Special Commissioners by persons claiming to be resident or domiciled abroad on the questions of domicile, ordinary residence and residence. It is fairly well-known that difficulties have arisen in the past owing to the Board of Inland Revenue deciding questions of domicile and residence without any right of appeal being open to residence abroad. By Section 27 of the new Act, however, any person who is aggrieved by the decision of the Board of Inland Revenue may apply to have his claim heard by the Special Commissioners and appeal from their decision, if necessary, to the High Court.

It must be clearly understood, that apart from the foregoing right to appeal, there is no alteration in the law as to the liability of persons domiciled or resident abroad. In such cases the usual claim to repayment of British income tax may be made under one or more of the following classes of relief:—

(1). Exemption in respect of dividends on certain British Government securities where the beneficial owner is ordinarily resident abroad.

(2). Exemption in respect of interest or dividends on foreign or colonial securities, stocks, owned by a person not resident in the United Kingdom.

(3). Reduction or exemption from tax on income from sources within the United Kingdom, in the case of a British subject, crown servant, ex-Crown servant, widow of Crown servants, servant of British Protectorate, employee of missionary society, resident in the Isle of Man or Channel Isles, or resident abroad for sake of own health or member of the family.

(1). Reduction of tax where become tax has also been paid on the same income in another part of the Empire.

Is Shanghai Destined To Have Its "Great Fire?"

IN times of great national stress and danger it is natural for persons to consider first of all the security of their own lives and property. Self-preservation is a first law of nature and in recent years we have had the phase "safety-first" brought to our attention so frequently and effectively that it has practically become a part of our daily existence. But while observing the "safety-first" injunctions and making provisions for the security of our persons and properties, most individuals overlook elements and conditions existing in their communities which negative all of their personal precautions for security of life and property.

We suppose it is the critical political situation existing in this section of the Chinese Republic which has made martial law necessary in the foreign and native sections of Shanghai which brings this subject of "safety-first" from a community standpoint to our attention. Since the beginning of hostilities a few miles away—really so few miles away that we can often hear the big guns—many owners of business properties located in the heart of the Shanghai business sections have taken out war risk insurance. The reason for this has been, we are informed, not because of a fear that something might cause a great conflagration in the center of the city, but a fear that something might happen in the outskirts of the city and spread to the center.

Most residents of Shanghai, Chinese and foreign, take a justifiable pride in the modern construction which has taken place in Shanghai in recent years. All of us like to travel up the harbor with our friends from abroad and point out to them the block after block of modern buildings architecturally beautiful, erected with due regard to the imposing river setting and fitted and completed with nearly all of the improvements of this luxurious age. With the imposing Hongkong and Shanghai Bank building in the center, our eyes travel with pride along the water-front in each direction noting the six to nine story office and business buildings not only on the Bund but stretching into the heart of the city. And we do not stop with the business structures, we also take delight in pointing out the modern residences now extending into what a few years ago were rice paddies cultivated by Chinese farmers who lived in native huts.

That Shanghai soon will become one of the really great cities of the world there can be no question. But on the other hand it causes uneasiness to realise that along with the tremendous growth and developments of modern construction here in recent years that from the standpoint of fire protection, the experts have it that we are worse off now than we were five or six years ago. The reason for this is that a half dozen years ago the building of more than three or four stories was a rarity. Today we have dozens of six to eight story buildings which from the street appear to be of the best construction and strictly "fire-proof" but in reality while many of these structures are "Queen Anne" in front they are "Mary Anne" in the rear. By this we mean that in spite of the strenuous efforts of a well-directed fire fighting department, we find modern buildings upon which millions of dollars have been lavished, but which are totally unprotected in their rear and side openings by wire-glass, fire shutters, or the other elements of safety which owners of property in other cities in the world have learned through bitter lessons are necessary for complete safety. For example we know of one modern building completed during the year which was dedicated with great official ceremony that has both rear and sides exposed to inflammable structures and there isn't a pane of wire-glass or a fire shutter on any window. Even the uninstructed man in the street should be able to realise that a "fire-proof" building upprotected as to suitable doors and windows, is likely at any time to be gutted by a fire from an adjoining "fire-trap" structure.

The Fire Department of Shanghai has been improved wonderfully in recent years, but in reality, it is said to be not as capable of coping with extensive fires as it was a few years ago when Shanghai was a "three or four story" town. The number of pieces of fire-fighting apparatus and of men employed has been increased: there are now 28 foreign officers and about 400 Chinese firemen who are daily demonstrating their abilities as fire fighters. But of what use are these excellent features if the other component parts of such an organisation are either missing entirely or are out of date. Practically all of the water mains in the great central district of Shanghai are five or six inch and therefore not available, considering decided lack of pressure (about 40 pounds) to furnish more than one effective stream and in addition to this most of the hydrants are of single outlet type and are said to be too far apart. Even if there was more water, to permit the drowning-out of a really great fire, there are no portable water-towers, no fire-alarm system and what is probably worst of all an indifference on the part of the municipality and the public generally to the crying needs of the Fire Department. It would be difficult to visualise a city of 100,000 population in the United States or Canada without an effective fire-alarm system with call-boxes at every street corner.

In spite of this lack there are within a few miles range of the Bund at least 1,000,000 people resident and their only method of communicating information regarding fires is by means of watch-towers and a telephone service which is—well—not as good as many of us would like to have. In short we have here at the mouth of the great Yangtsze River a great progressive city commanding the trade of an empire and destined to be one of the great wonder cities of the world, but with fire-protective devices suitable only for coping with a town of three or four story buildings. Unless there are radical improvements within a brief space of time Shanghai is likely at any time to have its "great fire" which may startle the world not only from the standpoint of property destroyed, but also from the much more important element of human lives destroyed.

Almost every large city in the world has had its "test by fire." London, Baltimore, Chicago, San Francisco, Yokohama, Tokio and recently the city of Berkeley in California. When is Shanghai's time coming? It is not our purpose to create needless alarm in these days of constant stress and alarm, but this is a question of tremendous importance. Long immunity from disastrous fires have bred contempt of the danger on the part of the community as a whole and on the part of the property owners who are putting up handsome buildings without proper safe-guards.

In America there was once a manufacturer who erected a handsome plant in which he took a justifiable pride. When the building was dedicated, the owner put up a sign offering a prize of $100 to anyone who could suggest an improvement. The prize was won by a college youth who wrote on his slip of paper, "Any man who will put up a fine factory containing valuable machinery like this and put in wooden floors is a fool!"

Dr. Sun's Decline

IT is quite impossible at any time to get a proper grasp of the curiously involved politics of Canton, but of this much one can be tolerably certain—that Dr. Sun Yat-sen is rapidly getting to be a spent force as a political entity, if he is not already that now. It is impossible to think of Dr. Sun without a feeling of tragedy. He has had a heaven sent opportunity to strive for the weal of his country, but he has only succeeded in recent years in arousing bitter antagonism, both of foreigners and of his own countrymen, by his inordinate passion for the latest fashion in radical doctrines. And his most recent actions in dealing with his own people and with the heads of foreign Governments have served to put the finishing touch to that fatal process by which politicians get themselves discredited.

Countering the recent telegram from Dr. Sun to the President of the League of Nations at Geneva complaining of the alleged intervention of the British naval authorities in Canton's internal affairs and the non-reply of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald to his protest, Cantonese leaders have just sent a cable to the League declaring that Dr. Sun is no longer the spokesman of South China. This fact, of course, is well understood among well-informed people in this part of the world but among the people of Europe and America there still appears to exist an entirely false concept of Dr. Sun and the precise role which he fills in the affairs of this country, today. So, we suppose it is just as well that the Cantonese leaders have sent a cable to the League to disabuse the minds of badly informed Europeans of any misconceptions about Dr. Sun that might still persist.

Nothing, of course, could have been more unfortunate, from the standpoint of Dr. Sun's own prestige in Britain, than the telegram he sent on September 24 to the President of the Fifth Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva in which Dr. Sun stated that "British policy in China will continue to express itself in acts of Imperialist intervention and in support of counter-revolutionary activities against the national movement which aims at the establishment of a strong and independent China."

Great Britain cannot be accused now of interfering with the internal affairs of China any more than the United States, France or Japan. The most effective disproof of such an allegation lies in the fact that the foreign subjects and citizens of these States are beginning to become restless under the continued inertia of their respective Governments. But Dr. Sun attained his greatest of absurdity when he ended his cable to the League by saying: "It is no wonder that, after assisting rebels and reactionaries in Canton, Mr. MacDonald (socialist-labor leader) goes to Geneva to champion the cause of the Counter-Revolution in the Republic of Georgia in the guise of an 'honest broker' scenting Caucasian naphtha."

It is sheer nonsense, of course, for Dr. Sun to attribute his misfortunes now to foreign imperialism. A Hongkong writer thus sums up the British view when he states: "In his heart Dr. Sun knows better. He knows that were he able to administer his territory properly, this British Colony would be perfectly willing to co-operate with him in the development of Kwangtung and in the promotion of peaceful trade and industry. The truth is that Dr. Sun has donated himself to the world's worst elements. He has allied himself at once with militarists and anarchists, and it is at their bidding that he now seeks to make Britain the scapegoat for his failure to exploit the merchants—the responsible class, the class with a real stake in the country, without their waking up. Dr. Sun admits that he intended to bombard Saikwan, in order to cow the merchants, and the admission is enough. If only on humanitarian grounds it was somebody's duty to step in and prevent the massacre. Britain being best able to make a protest and back it up if necessary, the duty devolved upon her. Nor is that all. Saikwan is the part of the City nearest to Shameen, and quite probably in the shelling British property would have suffered and British lives would have been lost. Had that happened—"purely accidentally" of course—could the British warships have stood idly by and taken no action? That would have been too much, even for Sun Yat-sen, to expect."

Dr. Sun is now apparently an object of pity rather than anger. For nearly a decade he has been threatening to lead a punitive expedition against Peking. Small wonder that Marshal Chang Tso-lin, who is a man of action rather than words, informed Dr. Sun the other day that he was unable to remit any cash for the proposed expedition from Canton but would be glad to find room for Dr. Sun if he had to leave Canton for a safer place. It is possible, of course, that Dr. Sun may have to leave Canton in the near future in view of his rival, General Chen Chiung-ming, looming menacingly on the Canton horizon. The question is what foreign ships Dr. Sun will select for his outward trip this time. His last two enforced trips from Canton were on British and Japanese ships, but surely he would not select one of these ships this time.

A FIGHT TO A FINISH

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Dear Sir.—The war between Chekiang and Kiangsu has been staged for almost four weeks and none of us can tell definitely as to which side will come out victorious. Although General Lu now faces more odds than General Chi, he seems still to stand strong to carry out his plan. On account of this, by way of helping General Lu, Marshal Chang Tso-lin and Dr. Sun Yat-sen have taken their duty as the true friends of General Lu by attacking Marshal Wu Pei-fu and General Sun Chuan-fang. Therefore the war now spreads almost in the four directions of our country. There are many conditions have been affected by the war and especially the opening of schools.

The plans which have been carried on by Lu, Chang and Sun are highly esteemed at present, for they have rebelled against the central government to sweep all the traitors such as Wu helps Tsao to seat on the Presidential chair through bribery. In your yesterday's paper I have informed that the old Peiyang Party is now struggling to bring an end to the present fighting. I strongly oppose to this movement and hope that it will not turn to account. Peace is not needed at this time, for it will merely bring us gestures as well as to our country. We must get some results from the fighting.

China will never be strong when there are still traitors darkening our country. The only way to better our country is nothing more than we must hope that Lu, Chang and Sun will not stop to carry on their plans that is to sweep all the traitors.

I thank you very much for your valuable space.

AN OVERSEA CHINESE.

Excerpts From Great Writers

By Mathy

FEAR OF GREATNESS

Don't be afraid of your generous emotions.

The worst fear is the fear to be too great.

The meanest satisfaction is to be content in being like others.

If you trust a friend trust him unto death. Of course, you may be deceived in him. But better be humiliated by betrayal than be incapable of perfect faith.

If you love your wife, love loyally utterly. She may not appreciate it. But better be unappreciated than to miss the joy of perfect self-giving.

Don't be too afraid of casting your pearls before swine. Better that than to hoard your pearls. And Jesus, who said, it, did cast His pearls before many swine.

Don't be afraid to forgive. The object of your forgiveness may be unworthy, but that cannot mar the fineness of your pardon.

Don't be afraid to show yourself friendly, for only so you show yourself worth friendship.

Don't be afraid to believe in goodness. Better that evil should come as a shock than that you should have trusted in it.

Don't be afraid of being too kind. "In this world," says Marivaux, "one must be a little too kind to be kind enough."

THE MACHINE GUN COMPANY

When you're caught in the very tightest corner,
(The fellows in France were the ones),
You always used to call the soundest help of all,
The guns, the little snapping guns.

Though their armored cars are not so very sound,
And provide you lots of harmless fun.
This fact you will defend, that it saves you in the end:
The gun, the little snapping gun.

When your hired radiator is out of order, don't call in a contractor to repair it, but ring up the Electricity Department—We repair it free of cost. When your radiator plug gets hot, change it at once—There is only one part of the heating installation that should get hot, and that is the heating element. Don't shut your radiator cord in the door—it will probably damage it and cause trouble later on. Remember that kettles, irons, and any heating and cooking apparatus may be used on the heating circuit—Your iron that is costing you 6 cents per hour on your lighting circuit will only cost one-and-a-half cents on the heating circuit.

Secrets Of Ancient Tombs

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

One of the most interesting places in Paris is the Institute of Papyrology, where they unfold the covers of mummies thousands of years old, to discover ancient writings on the papyrus paper that was pasted and glued layer upon layer to make the decorated breastplates and masks, with which the mummies of all great and rich Egyptians were decorated after being wrapped for the sarcophagus.

If we had a similar custom of interment our funeral directors and embalmers would, no doubt, make use of old newspapers, and of the leaves of law books and dead novels, to form our funerary plastrons and masks—to the great edification of the archaeologists and tomb-openers of far future centuries. The ancient Egyptian undertakers found that old papyri, that is manuscripts written on papyrus, served that purpose as admirably as if made for no other, and thus, unintentionally, they filled the graves of Egypt with historical documents which were to prove of inestimable value to the students of a later age.

Sometimes it is a king's decree that has outlived by many long centuries the generations to whose ears it was as the word of a god; surviving because fragments of the papyrus on which it was written were worked up into the gorgeously decorated mask or plastron buried on his mummy or on that of some great officer of his court. Sometime it is a literary work of a quality which still give it value. Thus fragments of a papyrus edition of Homer's "Odyssey" were discovered embedded in the plastron of a mummy interred at Faycum 225 years before the Christian era.

The work of unfolding these fragments, disengaging them from one another and from the various thicknesses of the stiffened fabric into which they were worked up, and then flattening them out, matching them together, and finally reading the characters with which they are covered, demands great skill, patience and special knowledge.

Imagine what you would do with a similar plaque composed of layers of fragments of old newspapers and letters, firmly glued and pressed together, covered on the outer surface with a deposit of lime and then with a mass of painted figures and symbols, the whole having lain for two or three thousand years on the breast or the face of the dead in an Egyptian tomb!

The papyrus is a true paper, made from strips of the pith of the papyrus plant, doubled, pressed, and pasted with fine flour boiled in vinegar water; then beaten with wooden hammers, and glued a second time, and finally sun-dried. The writing upon it was done with ink. The sheets of papyrus consisted or rolls from eight to ten inches wide and nearly fifty feet long. Such a roll was called in Latin "volumen," whence "volume."

In order to free the fragments of papyrus manuscripts that have been used for funeral masks and breastplates, it is necessary first to soak the whole in warm water; then it is sprayed with acetic acid which slowly dissolves the superficial layer of lime and the gluey paste holding the layers together.

Piece by piece, with the utmost care, the layers are separated and cleaned off with acidulated water. They are already more or less torn and fragmentary, and even the most skillful unrolling is attended with occasional rending.

When all have been separated and dried on blotting paper, they are matched together, so far as possible, and then put under a magnifying glass for decipherment. Two men work together at this—one concentrating light upon the pieces of manuscript by means of a concave mirror; the other, with his lens carefully studying the faded letters and figures on the illuminated areas.

These are "papyrologists;" there is a profession of "papyrology." It is one of the lamps in the modern temple of learning and men devote their lives to it.

DRESS

Belts Take Conspicuous Place Among Smart Feminine Accessories

Some fashions are established without the cachet of the great French or American designers. It would, in fact, be interesting to see how frequently a striking turn in fashion is the result of a general, really spontaneous desire on the part of women here, there and everywhere.

Take belts, for instance. They are practically ignored by the French dressmakers in their recent openings." Yet for all that there is a growing demand for separate belts in every place where women take an interest in clothes. The young girl who has wearied of the straight contour of a tubular beltless frock of a belt which she wears only slightly below the so-called normal waistline. A suit or separate skirt likewise calls persistently for a wide belt. In spite of the long tunic blouse and the middy type of blouse, many young women are getting back to the blouse that tucks in the suit waist band. A very wide leather belt placed rather low at the waistline—so that the top just tops the top of the skirt band—produces a straight, boyish outline that gives much satisfaction.

The sketch gives an idea of some new belts offered by the shops at the present time. The figures presents a beige kasha frock trimmed with appliquesd brown suede, and with it is worn a wide, brown suede belt with a huge gilt buckle.

Above this are three belts, uppermost one of openwork green suede appliqued on tan leather, a belt made of narrow bands of black patent leather held together with colored beads and a bead buckle, and a hand-painted kid belt shaded from orange to red. Below the figure is a green leather belt with wide gold edge, fastened with gold buttons, white kid edged with brown, and a red and white pleated leather belt.

MY BEST MUFFIN RECIPES

Twin Mountains

These muffins are so named because when they are cooked just right they break slightly at the top to form two little peaks. To make them cream one-half cup of sugar with a third cup of butter. Add one beaten egg, three-quarters of a cup of milk, and when well mixed two cups of sifted flour with one-quarter teaspoon salt and four level teaspoons baking powder. Put in greased muffin tins and bake in a fairly hot oven.

Graham Muffins

Sift together one cup graham flour, one cup white flour, one-quarter cup sugar, two teaspoons baking powder and one teaspoon salt. Add slowly one cup milk, one well beaten egg, and one tablespoon melted butter. Mix to a smooth batter and bake in greased muffin tins for about twenty-five minutes. It is always best to have the tins fairly warm before putting the mixture in them.

SOMETHING TO MAKE

Did you ever look at an odd assortment of old marmalade jars and kitchen earthenware dishes and think of them as the starting point for very attractive gifts? They say the idea came first from Italy, where from remote times the peasant girls have decorated their rude earthen water jugs with raised clay flowers, etc., and painted them with bright colors.

If your fingers are at all deft you will do best by experimenting for yourself. Start out on some old earthen jar or dish of small size. Clean it thoroughly and smooth off any roughness with a file or heavy sandpaper. Now paint it all over black, and over this, when dry, put a coat of varnish. You can finish it merely with a band or two of color and you have an attractive vase, or you may experiment making little raised designs with the plaster. When you become quite experienced you may find it not difficult to make little sprays of apples and other froult, painted in natural colors and varnished after the paint is dry.

Your Market

The everyday requirements of the Chinese family in China do not differ essentially from those in the larger towns of the world.

Of the billions of dollars that are spent each year for food, clothing, household furnishings and luxuries of every kind Chinese families in China take their full proportion. And when remembering that well over 95 percent of Chinese population in China use foreign manufactured goods the enormous extent of this market is apparent.

Chinese Traders' Diary (1925 issue)

takes the sales message directly to the Chinese distributors of foreign manufactured goods with money to buy.

FRENCH GOING FAR IN AIR TRAVELING

Progress Made In Extending Commercial Aviation

While the French have been making rapid progress since the World War in developing the airplane, the recent remarkable flight of Pelletier d'Oisy from France to Indo-China, China and Japan has greatly increased interest in the subject of commercial aviation. This has led M. Laurent-Eynac, Under Secretary of State for Aviation and Aerial Transportation, to give to the French magazine, L'Europe Nouvelle, a statement as to the present condition of commercial flying in France and its possibilities in the future.

M. Laurent-Eynac discusses first the many technical problems which have to be solved, which include establishment of air routes and the equipment necessary in the new field of transportation.

The air routes instituted by the State comprise ports, such as those of Le Bourget and of Orly; sheds, landing places and frontier stations. For the last named there has been organised a special custom house service. On the different landing fields scattered along the routes there have been erected permanent installations for the accommodation of passengers, personnel and equipment of the companies, as well as for the personnel of the ports, sheds, landing fields and frontier stations.

At Le Bourget, which is the air port of Paris, France possesses an office building, including a waiting room for passengers, a reading room, a post, office substation, an exchange office, a restaurant and a Custom House service. To make sure that the pilots possess all the physical requisites for the safe conduct of the airplanes, a special school for physiological studies has been created at Le Bourget.

MANY INSTALLATIONS MADE

If, with these different installations, one takes into account the administrative offices, sheds and workshops of the different companies and all the equipment required for radio-telegraphy, radio-telephone and weather forecasts, and for landing by day and by night, one can understand to what extent the commercial aviation services have gone in the way of the organisation of air routes to insure the maximum of safety and comfort to their patrons.

These installations are found on the following routes operated by French companies: Paris to London, Paris to Strasburg, Prague and Warsaw, Paris to Strasburg, Prague, Vienna and Budapest, Belgrade to Bucharest and Constantinople, Antibes to Ajaccio, Toulouse to Casablanca (west coast of Morocco), Casablanca to Oran (West Algeria), Alicante to Oran.

Essental conditions of commercial aviation are safety, regularity and equipment. M. Laurent-Eynac gives an idea of the progress Frenchmen have made in these respects by pointing out that when the Treaty of Peace was signed airplanes carried only one motor, which did not exceed 300 horsepower. Moreover, the period of activity of those motors was very limited, as it did not exceed an average of fifty hours. The frailty of the motors made air trips very uncertain. It was necessary, to insure a greater degree of safety and regularity, to improve the heart of the airplane—the motor. Four years of tireless efforts by the manufacturers, in co-operation with the technical departments, brought about the results known now to all.

Motive power has increased from 300 to as 480 horsepower. The time of uninterrupted running, formerly fifty hours, has reached an average of over 200 hours. A motor of the same type as that on the airplane of Pelletier d'Oisy has actually functioned perfectly well during 600 hours.

PASSENGERS CARRIED IN COMFORT

Besides improving the motors, it was necessary to adapt the cabins to commercial transportation. There, also, improvements have been marked. The uncomfortable accommodations of the one-motor type of planes used in 1920 have been replaced by spacious rooms, well ventilated, and by two or three motor types with large cabins, provided with seats so comfortable that a trip of several hours is made without discomfort.

The increase in the power of the motors has brought an increase in their speed. The initial commercial speeds, which ranged from 68 to 80 miles an hour, now reach close to 115 miles, and are constantly increasing.

The commercial exploitation of the aviation system is conducted by private companies under the supervision of the Government. This control extends not only to the financial aspect of the enterprise, but to the personnel and the equipment. No pilot is accepted for this service unless he has been found absolutely competent. No plane is allowed to leave the ground before it has been thoroughly inspected by technical inspectors.

As commercial aviation is yet too young to live without the aid of the Government, premiums are paid from the public treasury to the companies for safety equipment, &c., and the Government is considering a proposal to grant long contracts to the operating companies so that they may feel their future is assured.

Companies now engaged in the air carrying industry in France include the Societe Generale de Transports Aeriens, the Compagnie Franco-Roumaine, the Aeronovale and the Societe Generale d'Enterprises Aeriennes. Together, these companies cover the routes already described.

GROWTH OF AIR LINES

In summing up the progress made by the French aviation companies, M. Laurent-Eynac states that in 1920 2,386 trips were approximately 450,000 miles traveled, 1,171 passengers carried and 154,076 pounds of merchandise transported. In 1923 the planes made 9,720 trips, covering approximately 2,104,700 miles, and carried 11,638 passengers and 1,938,002 pounds of merchandise. And last year there were only six accidents recorded.

"The main advantage offered by the airplane is undoubtedly that of speed." says M. Laurent Eynac. "The trip from Paris to London is accomplished in two hours, whereas it takes eight hours by train and boat. Furthermore, the annoyance of having to change twice from train to boat and vice versa is eliminated, as is also the Custom House inspection, &c. An airplane goes from Toulouse to Casablanca in thirteen hours in the Summer and in a day and a half during the Winter, whereas boats take three days and a half, and the maritime service is only semiweekly, while by plane there are daily departures. On this line airplanes are carrying one-third of the total postal freight between France and Morocco. Merchants and business men, who are taking a keen interest in their enterprises, are using airplanes daily for the remittance of their letters or of parcels requiring prompt delivery."

M. Laurent-Eynac regards the immediate future of commercial aviation as dependent chiefly on the progress made in equipment of airplanes. He foresees the possibility of daily crossings of the Mediterranean, the linking of Paris with Northern Africa. Tunis, Algiers, Morocco and the French possessions of Western Africa by flights of two or three days, and the possibility of joining France with the Near and Far East.
